

◆ Small Group Curriculum ◆

Rationale for Small Groups

Church small groups have been in the church for a long time. Wesley started Holy Clubs consisting of 10-12 same sex persons meeting regularly for personal accountability, prayer, and spiritual reflection. Sunday schools began in England but soon took deep root in American Christianity and flourished until recent times. The idea of small groups is not new. In looking at the book of Acts, especially chapter 2, one sees elements of small group life contained therein.

Stetzer and Geiger¹ indicate that almost 8-in-10 (79 percent) of those surveyed agreed that small groups are very important in the church. Two-thirds said that their church regularly starts new small groups. They further say they “saw widespread agreement, but perhaps not widespread engagement.”

Small groups are about more than what you need to know, but who you need to know and how you need to know it. In other words, community and processing life together are more important components of small groups than mere content. The problem facing some in church life is this: the gift of teaching should not be equated with the gift of lecturing (or preaching!).

Fisher and Ellis (1990) emphasize that most of the definitions of a (small) group indicate the sharing element among members as the key factor, which defines the existence of a group. The sharing might be focused on perceptions, motivation, and goals, as well as around tasks, such as in a scenario group session. This sharing element can be greatly influenced by the group dynamic or climate of the group.

Studies have shown that when looking at long term group retention, the ability to apply knowledge and solve problems, critical thinking and development of positive attitudes, results consistently favor small discussion classes (McKeachie & Kulik, 1975, McKeachie, 1994). The bottom line is that people learn, they are more likely to continue to return when they are active participants rather than passive listeners. Moreover, they not only learn but learn more.

Benefits of a Small Group

There are numerous benefits to hosting and multiplying small group life in your church. The list below is not in order of importance but shows a variety of important reasons for doing small groups. The list shows the direct benefits to the individuals who participate in a group as well as the benefits to the church body.

Benefits for Participants

Small groups allow participants to:

- Discover and engage with a range of perspectives, ideas, and backgrounds.
- Have more active involvement.
- Helps participants to clarify their attitudes to and ideas about the lesson, as they test their own ideas and attitudes against those of others.
- Encourage students towards self-study of Scriptures.
- Engage in peer learning and sharing responsibility for learning.
- Experience life change in a safe environment.

Benefits for the Church Body

Small groups also benefit the body as a whole in the following ways:

- Small groups make churches more personal.
- Small groups provide a nearly unlimited leadership development pipeline.
- Small groups can promote more effective evangelism since "Come over to my house" is a much easier invitation than "come with me to church."
- Small groups provide the best opportunity for "one-anothering."
- Small groups can actually produce more unity of heart and mission.

How This Small Group Study Works

The study provided with The Gift materials lasts 5 weeks. Each week is based loosely on the sermon topic but allows leaders to venture more widely in the topic. Each session comprises 3 movements, with sub-elements, as noted below.

Movement 1: Loving

- Welcome: Giving a biblical welcome to all who attend.
- Warm-up: Consists of a question or game to deepen relationships with one another.
- Worship: Spending time in a worshipping posture.

Movement 2: Learning

- Absorbing the Word: This is the interactive exploration of the Biblical topic.
- Applying the Word: This is spending time in personal and groups reflection on what the word is saying to the group.

Movement 3: Living

- Serving the Group: This moment provides opportunity to invest in one another and help serve any needs the group may have.
- Serving the World: This is designed to launch the group into proactive and purposeful action to bring others to know Jesus, either through the small group or the main meeting event.

As you begin to utilize these studies, make sure to provide a connection between the small group time (which may have guests who do not normally attend your congregation) and the main worship event. Pray for the participants. Allow God to speak through these studies.

“Order Our Steps”
Movie: It’s a Wonderful Life

SYNOPSIS

What’s on your agenda in the next 48 hours? Preparing meals, wrapping gifts, a last minute run to the Dollar Store? Perhaps it’s one more batch of cookies or dipping a few more pretzels in chocolate? Maybe the question should be: do you have any margin to listen and ask God to “order your steps”? What could make this a Christmas to remember is taking time to practice the presence of God and establish a sacred order to our life.

PREPARATION

As you prepare for the session, the following reminders will contribute to a great night of group.

- Pray for each participant
- Study each scripture and process the meaning of each for your own life
- Prepare the space where you will be meeting to make it comfortable and festive.
- Soft music playing as people arrive might be helpful in setting the tone for the meeting.
- Be ready 15 minutes before the advertised time.
- Prepare seasonally appropriate snacks.

Movement 1: Loving (20 Minutes)

Welcome (10 minutes)

- Greet each person as they arrive. Make sure to spend time with each person in the group. If there are new people, introduce them to others in the group. Make everyone feel at home. Direct them to the snack table.

Warm Up (10 minutes)

- When you think of the word “journey,” what trip or vacation comes to mind first?
- On a scale from 1-10, how orderly/organized are you?

Prayer Lead in a short prayer to begin the Learning Time.

Movement 2: Learning (30 Minutes)

Absorbing the Word

- Read Matthew 2:13-15
- Based on these three verses, what type of man do you think Joseph was?
- Has there ever been a time in your life that you were convinced that you heard from God and made the choice to follow him?

Applying the Word

- Joseph led his family on a real escape journey to Egypt. Sometimes our journey with God can get a little crazy, out of balance, or even messed up. What keeps divine order in your life? What keeps your journey with Christ balanced?
- In the message we were encouraged to think about three disciplines that bring divine order to life: purging, illumination and communion.

“Order Our Steps”
Movie: It’s a Wonderful Life

- Purging – a complete surrender to God.
 - How often do you pray a prayer of complete surrender?
 - What does that prayer sound like?
 - Can you think of a song that demonstrates the discipline of ‘purging’?
- Illumination – Centering your thoughts on a Bible verse or an attribute of God
 - If you were selecting a passage of scripture to meditate on, what would it be?
 - If you were to mediate on an attribute of God, what would you select?
 - What sort of things are necessary for ‘illumination periods’? (e.g. silence, Bible, coffee, time, music, a journal, etc...)
- Communion – experiencing divine order with God
 - Describe the emotion you feel when you are in communion with God.
 - Why do you think that communion with God usually follows purging and illumination?
 - What keeps you from experiencing communion with God?

Movement 3: Living (20 minutes)

Serving the group

- Life doesn’t have to always be focused on unmet expectations, disappointments or rough times. Let’s celebrate as a group what is happening that is good. Then let’s rejoice in prayer because of the faithfulness of God to us.

Serving the world

- In the closing scene of the movie, “It’s a Wonderful Life,” George Bailey seems to realize what is important. His faith has been restored, indeed, a divine order seems to have captured his heart. How can you demonstrate to others this week that divine order has captured your heart?
- Consider implementing the suggested Missional & Outreach Ideas included with this series.

CLOSING

Read together this closing prayer

Lord, help me to experience you today. I need you. Set me free to begin bringing divine order to my life through surrender and listening. Help me to pay attention to the order of my life and honor you with my time, gifts and resources. Amen.
